

A BIG THANK YOU to library supporter and avid book-reader Cole Kresge, who raised $350 for Tredyffrin Public Library. Cole, a 1st grader at New Eagle Elementary participated in a “pay it forward” school project where he was given $10 and challenged to earn money for the charity of his choice. Fortunately for us, Cole chose the library! Using the $10 project money, Cole bought the materials to make origami bunny bookmarks (by hand) which were available at the library for a suggested donation.

Cole’s mom told us that he has been visiting the library since he was an infant and wanted to raise money so that the library can continue to benefit other kids in the community.

Library Director Chris Kibler was fortunate enough to grab a photo with Cole this week (as he found the time to fit a visit to the library between school and extracurricular activities) and to tell him thanks for his hard work, for supporting the library, and for just being a great kid.

Thank you, Cole!
