

TREDYFFRIN TOWNSHIP LIBRARIES

TREDYFFRIN PUBLIC LIBRARY & PAOLI LIBRARY

April 8th – 14th is National Libraries Week, an annual celebration of the role that libraries play in communities and a recognition of how the resources, services, and programs that libraries provide change lives and create enriching experiences. Libraries today offer much more than books and in many ways have become the heart of communities, a space where people learn, work, interact, and create memorable experiences.

April 10th is also National Libraries Workers Day, a day to recognize the valuable contributions to libraries made by the librarians, staff, and volunteers and acknowledge the vital role that these individuals play in providing free and open access to resources and whose tireless efforts make a difference in strengthening communities.

As the Tredyffrin Township Libraries evolve to meet the changing needs and interests of residents, dedicated librarians, diligent and knowledgeable staff, and extraordinary volunteers welcome new challenges and embrace their role as agents of change while retaining the core values of strengthening a community of lifelong learners engaged in discovery, creation, and engagement. In today's library environment, diverse groups including young children, school-age students, small business owners, and community groups depend upon libraries and the resources they offer. Resources like summer reading programs, technology classes, and group sessions for English-language learners are just a few ways libraries are transforming and leading their communities.

If you happen to stop by Tredyffrin Library or Paoli Library please take a moment to let a staff member know that you appreciate their role in the community. As Library Director, I can attest to the fact that what we've accomplished at Tredyffrin Township Libraries would not have been possible without the amazing, dedicated librarians and staff that work so hard to deliver exemplary library services on a daily basis. I am truly grateful for their efforts.
